INTRODUCTION

The pandemic of Covid-19 affects all sectors of life including economics, education, and religious life. In the religious aspect, scholars tried to respond to this pandemic from a religious perspective. For instance, some fatwas were issued as a response to the need for a religious practice adjustment during a pandemic.

Faculty of Islamic studies, Universitas Ahmad Dahlan offers a short course on Islamic studies with interdisciplinary and multi-perspective approaches. Specifically, this short course covers four fields, hadith studies, Arabic literature, Islamic Banking, and Islamic Education

PURPOSE

The short course on Islamic studies is aimed to enrich the discussion of Covid-19 from the religious point of view in the Indonesian context.

BENEFITS

- Flexibility. All study materials, exercises and support are delivered online
- Better understanding on religion and pandemics in the context of Indonesia, new knowledge
- International Certificate & academic transcript for 3 credits
